1. In April 1952, source determined that large quantities of flour were stored in the warehouses of the former German army bakery at Frankfurt/Oder which is subordinate to the Soviet main supply depot. All warehouses of the supply depot were filled. A total of 480 tons of flour had been piled up in four large tents in the yard of the main supply depot during the past weeks. The flour was hauled to the army bakery by truck as the bakery is not provided with a railroad spur track. On 31 March, the main supply depot was inspected by a Soviet major general who arrived in sedan [redacted]
2. On 1 April, 60 field kitchens and 16 field bakeries were dispatched from Winterhafen to an undetermined destination. [redacted] picked up a field bakery at the former German army bakery. The truck belonged to a unit in Lieberose. *
3. The following shipments arrived at, or were dispatched from, the main supply depot between 30 March and 7 May 1952:

* [Redacted]

** [Redacted] Comment. During the period of observation, 256 cars with supplies, including 59 with flour, arrived at the depot. At the depot 180 cars were loaded, including 19 with flour. The flour was probably imported from the U.S.S.R. [Redacted] Since the beginning of January 1952, the volume of incoming shipments considerably surpassed that of outgoing shipments so that it is assumed that large amounts of supplies are stockpiled in the depot.
